

Requirements-Driven Waste in IT Spending by Portfolio Mix

Average of Level 1 and Level 2 Companies Versus Level 3 Companies

High requirements maturity translates directly to IT spending efficiency. These efficiency advantages become more pronounced as the size and complexity of projects grow. By investing in requirements maturity, organizations can not only improve business analysis capabilities, but also reduce IT spending waste. This means a greater level of certainty and higher success rates for all IT development projects.